

Cover of Batak pustaha manuscript, Or 11761

The wooden front cover has a decorative ridged spine, through which holes have been drilled for a carrying string. This pustaha, which appears to contain texts on protective magic (pagar), is one of a number collected by Baron Oscar von Kessel who travelled in the Batak country from Tobing vis Sipirok to Sigompulon in 1844. The wooden front cover has a decorative ridged spine, through which holes have been drilled for a carrying.

<https://blogs.bl.uk/asian-and-african/2022/02/covers-of-batak-pustaha-manuscripts.html>

License: CC Attribution